PROFILE

I work as a front-end developer and have a keen sense of design. I love creating interfaces that are clear, responsive, and easy to use. I love transforming concepts into slick, useful web experiences, and my areas of expertise are HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and React.

Performance, accessibility, and designing interfaces that feel as good as they look are things that are important to me. Along with being a team player, I'm eager to learn new things and advance with each project.
